

CDC THE INVESTOR

The Deposit and Consignment Fund (Caisse des Dépôts et Consignations, CDC) is a long-term investor whose mission is to serve the public interest as well as economic and social development. It supports public policies. Its governance, its investment doctrine, its prudential management, and the sanctity of its resources make the CDC a unique model to boost investment in Tunisia.

As an engine of growth, the CDC is involved in major strategic projects (PPP, regional development, infrastructure, technology parks, energy, environment, urban development and smart cities, etc.). In addition, the fund supports SMEs with the following: investment funds, funding for regional venture capital investment companies, membership in incubator programs in partnership with the Industry and Innovation Promotion Agency (APII), and a funding line in collaboration with the World Bank.

As guarantor and trusted third-party, the CDC spurs the financial market through the various existing instruments or by proposing new products.

With ambitious determination, the CDC works towards the country's five-year plan (2016-2020) and a better future for Tunisia.
